ASK SHORTRIDGE
HELP SUSTAIN VETO
Senator Shortridge was urged to stand behind President Coolidge in his veto of the soldiers' bonus bill in a telegram sent yesterday by spokesmen for more than 250 Republican leaders of California. The appeal to Senator Shortridge to work in the Senate to sustain the President was decided on at a conference of leaders here Saturday. The telegram is signed by A. Burlingame Johnson, George E. Waldo, A. L. Rowland, Mrs. P'orence Collins Porter, Judge Edwin F. Hahn, Mrs. Charles B. Ashcroft, W. H. Archdeacon, Mrs. E. M. Stanton and John W. Wood. The telegram follows:

Washington, D. C.
The Republican party took over the affairs of our country in a State of confusion and insolvency from the unwise legislation, wild extravagance and hopeless incompetence of eight years of Democratic rule.
Under the wise guidance of President Harding and President Coolidge the debts incurred by the war and the Democratic misrule have been reduced, and the deficit left by the Democrats has been replaced by a substantial balance in the Treasury.
Your friends view with deep alarm the action of Republican Representatives in joining with the Socialistic blocs and the Democratic party in opposing the wise policies of President Coolidge now placing this country on a sound hasis and restoring general prosperity.

Administration spokesmen definitely linked the bonus today with the tax-reduction measure, intimating that President Coolidge would be forced to veto the pending revenue bill if the bonus is passed. Senator Reed declared "it's bonus or tax reduction."

The President in his message to Congress on the veto, however, made no flat declaration that the bonus bill would prevent tax reduction, but many members of both parties drew the inference from his plea for economy that a veto of the revenue bill is probable if the bonus is repassed.

earthquake disaster, prompted his decision to terminate a brilliant diplomatic career.

As Ambassador Woode's resignation was submitted prior to the Japanese exclusion issue being raised in Congress with the resignant delicate situation between Washington and Tokio, it was stated in the most emphatic terms tonight that the immigration bill now before President Coolidge had nothing whatever to do with the retirement.

NOT POLITICAL

In confirming the fact that Ambassador Woods had resigned his post, White House officials were careful to insist that the circumstance had no political significance whatever. There would be very sincere regret in the highest administration quarters if any such interpretation were placed on Mr. Woods's resignation, as all of the facts in the case are in conflict with any such view.

No formal announcement has been made of Mr. Woods's resignation because of the delicacy of the situation assing from the Congressional determination to disregard the wishes of the President and Secretary Hughes in the matter of Japanese exclusion by legislative action instead of through international agreement.

The feeling in Washington tonight was that Ambassador Woods had been urged to remain at his post when the exclusion issue became acute and that formal announcement of his departure from Tokio was not deemed advisable while Congress was wrestling with the problem, because of the very serious likelihood of improper influences being ascribed and inaccurate inferences drawn.

Only One New Outbreak Divorce Complaint Tells of Other Trysts Besides One in Two Days; Disease on at Time of Arrest

Only one new outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease, the first in two days, was reported in this section yesterday by the State Department of Agriculture. It developed in one herd of thirty-three cattle on the property of 8. Peitersma near Hynes. The area previously was infected.

The outbreak is believed to have been caused by the cattle breaking through to adjoining pastures in the infected area. The control forces of the Department of Agriculture announced yesterday that the situation is encouraging and declared the disease is on the run in this district.

WARN LODGE FORMAL CHOICE UPON WORLD COURT PLAN

Sixteen Men High in National Life Cite Three Unfair Ways of Defeat

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, May 18.—
There are three unfair ways and possibly one fair way by which the Senate Foreign Relations Committee may defeat the World Court proposal made to it by President Harding, renewed in unanimously elected Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, temporary chairman and keynote speaker for the convention, voted final approval of detailed plans for the session, and fixed upon June 18 for a last preconvention meeting of the subcommittee. Senator Harrison's election was the work of but a minute of formal balloting, as he virtually had been chosen at an unofficial session of the subcommittee last night.

Backers of Gov. Smith's candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination were reported to have been aligned with Senator Harrison from the first. That he also was acceptable to the William G. Thus you might attempt to lay the blame for its defeat upon the Democratic Senators or upon the nation's rejecting the impossible proposal. "A simpler and easier way to defeat it would be to hold it back upon one excuse after another until so near the close of the headquarters immediately after the election of Senator Harrison was completed.

"I am deeply pleased with the selection," he said. "My friends all supported Senator Harrison." Members of the subcommittee spoke of Senator Harrison as "a compromise choice" and Cordell Hull of Tennessee, chairman of the national committee, voiced their sentiments when he said. "The Senator was an ideal compromise candidate. He was acceptable to all groups. Smith, McAdoo and Underwood, right through the list, He is a very effective speaker and an unexcelled parliamentarian. His election as temperary chairman and keynoter was pot seriously opposed in any quarter."

Student Pastor Preaches on "White Collars"

Middle Class Regarded as Nation's Balance Wheel

BY AIMA WHITAKER
I went to church in an old store s way down on Bixth street—and the advertised sermon, "White Collars," to be preached by Stephen R. Miller promised interest, especially in that locality.

I found the congregation made ap mostly of children at first, but sarned they were to have a little ermon all their own and were to eave before the adult worship.

Mr. Miller is the acting pastor uring the absence of the church's egular pastor at an eastern church onvenion. He is very young and armest—a sophomore at U.S.C.—and takes this responsibility with lignity and grace. His opening prayer, following a hymn in which the hidden included in the little and prace.

dignity and grace. His opening prayer, following a hymn in which all the children joined justily, extemporaneous though it was arrested complete and reverend attention. It was really a prayer, asking for spiritual inspiration and daily guidance, and not, as so often happens, informing the Deity of wrongs to be righted. It concluded with the Lord's Prayer in which the children joined with enthusiasm.

BUNCH OF NEEDS

This was followed by a solo from her spring, another youthful enhusiant, accompanied at the piano a charming young woman in a risp white suit and a gay orange fill sweater, sister of the miniser, Miss Cheryle Miller.

Then still another young man, west H. Klausmann, preached the rest H. Klausmann, preached the nilfaren's sermon. He produced bunch of garden weeds and asked own many of the children there resent had a garden. Numerous roud little hands were raised, hen he asked whether they addited those weeds—and was a fife disconcerted when one nice title girl called out that she did. Because, you see, the weeds were tended to illustrate our sins, the aughty thoughts in our minds at crowd out the finer flowers of sought in our mind's garden. And is little girl looked rather unpy when she understood that ends were not admirable! But it as a good little sermon, and the littlere "got it."

After this the children filed out that the congregation was augmented by a few more adults, hen we all joined in a responsive ading of a pealm and listened to scripture reading from St. Paul's pistle to the Corinthians (11-13, rises 5 to 11.) St. Paul's message wrise out the thought expressed out the thought expression.

This young minister is unched into its sermon, a little self-conscious to first, but was soon lost in his ubject. He took the play, "White oliars," for his theme—the great iddle class without which every ation must fall. He pointed out on the lack of a solid middle class—ome and Poland being used specifically to illustrate his point. And here were those, he said, who have were those, he said, who have were those to the lack of a solid middle class without a same way because of its midle class's desire for wealth. But is own opinion was that Ameria's great middle class could and ould prove the salvation of the sunts, in that they held the sands of both laborer and wealthy agnate, could understand both expoints and bring them togethe and help them to understand shoth other.

The wealthy man of power and place, he said, often knew as little of international relations as the abover, being blinded by his preduces and sometimes regarding nternational conditions as tools, as opportunities for power and rain. But the middle class, the white-collar people, not only were capable of understanding international affairs and of constructive thought on the subject, but they also were the class which suffered most in any controversies between abor and capital and who paid the most taxes and contributed most in the subject.

This middle class, Mr. Miller shoke between a spiritual God and a material god, between gold and a material god, between gold and the Divinity of manhood. This sarnest, youthful minister foresees it making the better choice, foresees it realising its responsibility both to wealth on the one hand independent on the other, and trasping more tightly the hands of these prejudiced brothers, bringing them together in harmony and g them together in harmony and destanding.

The service concluded with anher earnest prayer to this end dt the singing of another hymn. his is really a mission church, Rillated with the Methodista, and as established both a playground d a library in this industrial sighborhood where such things

SWEEPSTAKES WINNERS

The car using the least gasoline, regardless of classification, was the Overland, Model 92, entered by the Bozzari Motor Car Co., which made the entire run on 13% gallons of "Red Crown," averaging 29.36 miles to the gallon. The Willys-Knight, sponsored by the Willys-Overland Pacific Company, won second place, averaging 23.53 miles to the gallon, and the Gardner, entered by John T. Dye, Inc., took third place, averaging 28.08 miles.

The automobile manufacturers and drivers whose cars engaged in this economy classic may continue to differ on the comparative merits of the various cars entered, but on motor fuels they agree that for true economy—power and mileage—it's "Red Crown."

in no competition in recent years have the winners been more closely pressed, and the mileage records shows are all the more remarkable for the new ruling which barred coasting out of gear to save gasoline.

For the eighth consecutive year "Red Crown" was the only gasoline used in this sensational power and mileage test. The reason for this unanimous choice is shown by the remarkable records printed here. Since the motor fuel was exactly the same gasoline as the public uses—is there any reason why "Red Crown" won't develop more power and better mileage in your car as well?

Fill your tank where you see the Red Crown sign—at Standard Oil Company Service Stations, garages and other dealers—and get motordom's accepted quality standard for gasoline.

World's Champion Billiardist and Former Cue King to Open Exhibition Tourney Here Today

Two of the world's greatest billiardists will be seen in action twice today, the first match at 3:30 p.m. and the second match at 8 p.m. at Wright's billiard parlors. Each match will be 400 points of :18.2 balkline.

No introduction need be made of these two artists, for wherever the billiard game is enjoyed the names of these two cueists are known. Each has had the honor of being champion of the world, and in these exhibitions the same rivalry carries as it would in tournament play.

Willie Hoppe is the present champion and is one of the best liked players as well as the most skillful in the world. Not since the days of Frank Ives has America been better represented in all tournaments where the world's best players appear than at the present time. Each year New York holds a tournament which brings the best of all players in the world and America comes out ahead.

Tomorrow will carry two exhibitions of the same character, and on Wednesday and Thursday these two billiardists will play 200 points of 18.2 balkline and a match of 25 points of three cushions twice daily.

According to the rules of the Pacific Coast Conference all schools are bound alike by the same entrance requirements. There is only one real answer and that is that the three California universities are very suspicious of each other and feel that it's time to sharpen up the old axe and hold it over some-body's head.

The only real difference between the new regulations and the old Pacific Coast Conference rules lies in the punishment clause which constitutes a threat, not against the university, which is the real effender in all such cases, but against the athlete himself who is in practically every case less culpable than the older people connected with the universities.

For instance, an athlete who violates one of the rules, or rather who is caught violating it, can be suspended from intercollegiate competition for from one to four years and each year of suspension counts as a year of athletic competition. This penalties the athlete and not the school except in a very indirect manner. The only penalty against the college which offends is cancellation of existing contracts "if the college refuses to abide by the rulings of the eligibility board."

At that, the agrees properly advertised, may have some effect on the athletes themselves in deciding some effect on the athletes themselves in deciding whether or not to go to any institution bound by the agreement. For instance if one or the other of the three universities bears a reputation for shaving the eligibility requirements pretty closely an athlete is going to think a long while before he decides to attend it.

Suppose, for instance, some to attend it.

Suppose, for instance, some high school star intends to register at one of the three universities bound by this agreement and the one he has rather expected to attend has, according to rumor, been using somewhat questionable methods in the past. Suppose he has been approached, as they all have, by coaches, trainers, graduate managers and other employees of this college and urged to attend the school.

He's' going to stop and think that possibly in his sophomore year somebody will protest him and it will be proved that he was solicited by the college representative to attend and he may be barred from competition for a year, or probably two years. It means that he gets only one possible year of athletic competition if he stays at that school or if he transfers to another. It may at least have the effect of making him careful of the school he enters and the manner in which he is induced to register.

The truth of the matter is that the rule probably won't have any effect at all. The high school boys themselves, as a rule, are not given to worrying very much about eligibility rules and any school which would violate the rules of the new triangular agreement. If a college has no decency now all the rules in the world backed up by a fock of threats, won't help any.

The Angels got to Bedient early in the first game, scoring three runs in the second inning. All the damage was done after two were center and went to second when Beck got a one-base knock to the sharply to left and Golvin scored.

Bedient grew tender-hearted and presented Crandall with a walk,

Beck and Billings came home in a hurry. Boss Krug grounded out.

Portland threatened in the

REVIEW OF OIL ACTIVITY

New Developments at Dominguez Expected This Week; Athens Well Tapering Down

which should shortly turn one way or the other.

The Rosecrans field is stilled somewhat of a doubtful quantity, owing to the continued wetness of the Rosecrans No. 1, and the fact that the Athens No. 1, which came in with a flow ranging between 1000 and 1100 barrels per day, according to pipe line reports.

There is no doubting the fact that there is oil at Rosecrans, but some of the big operators think that the Athens well, originally started by the Potter Oil Company, is somewhat too far north to be a first-rate producer. The general impression seems to be that the best production will likely be obtained in the vicinity of the Rosecrans No. 1, a mile to the southeast.

The continued Doub.

The continued of the wife of the wif chansior-Canneld Midway, Shell and Standard Oil Companies in the northern, southern and eastern extensions. All of the wildcats are nearing levels from which cores will be taken. Production from any one of three outposts would extend the proven area to include a large acreage.

To establish or disprove the theory that another formation, running parallel to the proven structure, exists north of Torrance, the Santa Fe is drilling a wildcatt on its Frarcis lease. Located on Western avenue near Electric avenue, this wildcat is down below 2000 feet. Slight showings of oil and gas have been encountered. A quarter of a mile north of the Francis, the Empire Oil Company recently stopped operations on its Winland Ranch wildcat, after making 4300 feet of hole. But the Empire immediately spudded in a new well a few hundred feet from the idle rig. This second Winland wildcat has been drilled 3800 feet.

was a daily gain of six barrels per well last week. The preduction was 45,000 barrels per day. Experienced field men say that this should be somewhere near the production for a long time to come and that they look for a slight gain. There are 324 producing wells in the field, of which 120 are pumping and 264 flowing. The average per well is 146 barrels. Activity is being shown on the cast side where two new fire area.

STEADY FLOW

The proving up of the southwestern part of the Del Amo lease is regarded as one of the most important recent developments in the field. Although the production at Del Amo No. 12 is small, other wells on the property have been steady and paying producers. With the big lease proven, the Santa Fe now holds property that will be under development for a long time to come.

In the eastern extension and the southwestern part of the field drilling operations continue unabated.

Most of the drilling is taking place on large leases held by substantial companies. New production will be larger and more sustained than in the intensely developed Lomita territory.

Since leasing 100 acres of the Joughlin property in the eastern extension from the Sentinel Oil Company has gone in with four rigs. In the same territory the Shell Company is drilling nine wells on the Bleumie lease, seven on the Scarborough lease and is rapidly drilling up its March property.

These operations, added to the east side activities of the Standard ard, Pan-American, Sentinel, Sujerior and E. J. Miley, insure considerable new production within the next few months.

In the southwestern part of the field, Chansior-Canfield, Standard and the Fullerton Oil Company are pushing activities with an aggregate of fifty drilling wells.

A new star has blased in the theatrical world in Paris. She is La Phalene, a girl of gentle birth—Elise Duchanier—who through misfortune became maid to Lolette, a dancer. The latter's spiteful machinations against her maid miscarry and Elise outshines her. Elise, sole support of an invalid sister, is warned by the elderly Dr. Laplerre, who loves her, that she has only a year to live. Suitors gather about La Phalene, including Maurice Brunel, her manager, and Count Mordae. Tom Kendrick,

The little room was silent for a space, and 'it seemed to Elise that Brune's slightly quickened breath ing and her own heart beats filled it.

"My dear," repeated Brunel. Bo it was to be lovemaking in the old fashioned sense of the term! Brunel intended not to mention contracts nor arrangements, but would whisper of love to her, she to play her part as a readily as he played his, and so make the game go well.

"Elise could have laughed bitterly as she realized it. This must be Brunel's way—alwaya. He was she could see, though far from being actually intoxicated, yet with sufficient liquor inside him to color all life vividly, so that he was surcharged with emotion and ready to claim any and everybody as a friend or even closer.

And she herself. She tried to analyze her own feelings and did not altogether succeed.

She was not afraid. She registered that rather astounding fact with little stirring as she faced Brunel. She was not afraid. Brunel's face was close to hera. His fingers dug tightly into the softness of her shoulders. She knew she must arswer him, must open the context from her side. Weeks previous she would have struggled and implored, have got away from him somehow.

Instead, now she smiled. Her hand reached up and patted his cheek. "It is the picture we would see, cherie," she said, "Take me and show it me."

He stared at her, his whiriling, wine-spurred brain hardly able to comprehend. Then he nodded. "The picture! Le Brune-See!" He could not find any words to may to her.

She turned to the picture and his hands dropped from her could not find any words to may to her.

I cannot imagine, however, that "A Bon of the Sahara" will start any wild revival of the sheik dramms. It is too obviously constructed along the old pattern lines. Something there is about expeditions of a pioneering character that instills vigor and freshness into a picture, and though the plot may be stereotyped in "The Son of the Sahara" there is a sense of freshness and novelty to the carrying out of the detail. rominent citizens of Ogle county appeared in Circuit Court her appeared in Circuit Court here yesterday as character witnesses for Bowser, a dog, now deceased, and their testimony saved Charles Vogeler, owner of the dog, $5900. Vogeler had been sued by Katherine Kane Clinton, who alleged the dog was responsible for an automobile accident near Ashton last summer, in which the complainant and her sister suffered serious injuries. There were no witnesses to the accident, in which Bowser, the dog, was killed. The women claimed he dashed out at their car, became entangled in the front wheels and caused the car to turn over.

The character witnesses, all of whom had known Bowser since puppyhood, testified that he had a good reputation for peaceful and quiet habits and had never been known to bark at or run after a car. After three hours deliberation the jury returned a verdict for the defendant, thus exonerating the character of the dead dog. In the cities, criminal lawyers maintain a staff of professional "character witnesses" but the men who testified for Bowser did so voluntarily. yesterday as character witnes
